

" Now there is no strong odor anymore and no more polluted air inside my store. Our skin is not irritated and the headaches have disappeared. That is the most important thing."

Dear Dr. Sawyer:

I am writing to urge the Air Resources Board to protect all Californians from perchloroethylene by phasing out the toxic chemical used in dry cleaning. There is ample scientific data showing that perchloroethylene is very harmful to human health. Dry cleaners using this chemical pose an unacceptable health risk to their employees, their customers, and my neighborhood.

Please move assertively to protect Californians from the danger of toxic perchloroethylene.

Sincerely,
